

RANSOM DISTRICT LIBRARY

Dear Ransom District Library Community

In another step toward normal library services, Ransom District Library will begin gratefully welcoming the public back into our building on Monday, July 6. There will be restrictions in place—limiting the number of patrons to 30 at a time, asking patrons to stay no longer than an hour, among others—and open hours will remain reduced for now. We cannot tell you how happy we will be to see you again, though, despite those restrictions, (which you can read here). We will be especially happy to see you wearing a cloth mask, required at this time for enclosed public spaces like the Library. If you stop by the building and need a mask, we will gladly provide one for you. The health of our staff and community outweigh all other concerns, and we will continue to provide curbside pickup for anyone who would prefer that approach for the foreseeable future. Staff will follow proper health and safety guidelines inside the building and out, and the building will be regularly sanitized.

When you come to the Library, be sure to take a look at the beautiful new building that is slated to be completed in October. The health of a public library often reflects the health of its community, and great things are in store on the corner of Bridge Street and Sherwood Avenue! While we work, we dream, and when we dream, we thrive.

Yours in hope and service,

Joe Gross
